

Fantasy Football League

Season II

Welcome back to the world of fantasy football! Here are this year's rules.

Cost

Entry fee is still $100 per team and I need to get your money by the draft. You can only own an interest in one team. Each team will get one roster move for free. All additional moves are $5 each until the first game after which each move is $5 plus $1 for each week into the season (i.e., a move is made after week 8; the cost is $5 + $8 (eight weeks) = $13). Multi-player trades are considered one move and cost an extra $5 (no matter is a two player move or an eight player move).

Schedule

The season will last the duration of the NFL regular season with the championship game the second to last week of the season. There are no byes the last three weeks of the season so all NFL teams will be playing during the playoffs. I have included with this memo the schedule for the season. Divisions will be determined randomly.

The beginning playoff structure will be seeded based on records. The other six teams will play each week of the playoffs with the team having the lowest cumulative points the Toilet Bowl champion. Tie-breakers for the playoff seedings will be based on head to head records then a coin flip.

Draft

A draft will be held in late August. At least one team member should be present if possible. Each team will draft a quarterback, two running backs, two wide receivers, a tight end, a placekicker, a defense/special team and five reserves (any position). Included is a ranking of players at each position provided by Fantasy Football Magazine. Important The teams will carryover to next year. A supplemental draft will be held for the 1995 season to select rookies and other players not on anyone's roster. You will be able to protect five players. Call me for other details.

The draft will be held at the party room at my apartment. Pizza and beverages will be provided and will be funded out of the entry fees. Poker will be an option after the draft (not funded from the entry fees).

The draft order will be determined randomly. Each round will be the inverse of the prior. That is 1-10, then 10-1, and so on.

Trades

Trades become official when all parties involved have contacted me. Trades will be permitted all season. I have the right to overturn any trade deemed unfair (i.e., bad team trading good player to good team for bad player). League owners can overturn my ruling with two thirds vote.

Scoring

See attached.

Roster

Each team will start one quarterback, two running backs, two receivers, one tight end, one kicker, and one defense/special team. Voice mail any lineup changes on Thursday. You have until kickoff of the first game of the week to change your roster. Last minute changes should be done through voice mail to your opponent's coach and me.

Prizes

All playoff teams will receive a portion of their money back. All playoff winners (excluding wildcards) will receive all of their entry fee. Also, the worst team will receive their money back as well (the booby prize). Also, the booby prize winner will be required to finance the food and beverage for next year's draft.

Exact payoffs will be determined when the total number of teams is set.

If you have any questions or comments call me at extension 258.